Young people we can divide into 2 groups – the teenagers and adults (from 20 to 30 years).

Teenagers often have conflicts with parents and they want to be independent. So some have part-time jobs and earn their own money. For teenagers is typical that they spend a lot of time with friends, love sports, parties, PC, books, dating and so on. So for this reason they are a little irresponsible.

Adults from 20 to 30 have to be more responsible because they finish school, find a place to live, pay rent, find jobs, get married and start a family.

However I want to talk about problems of teenagers. Parents usually don't want that their children try things such as smoking or drinking but children are curious. In my opinion it is normal. However we can't forget that exist parents who don't care about their children and for this reason some of them begin for example with cigarettes or alcohol. I think this is very sad. Into the biggest problems belong for example alcoholism, crime, racism, bullying and of course drugs.

First I would like to talk about alcoholism. Some teenagers go to pubs to chat with friends, some go to pubs to drink alcohol in a big amount and some even drink alcohol at home. Into the most favourite drink belong for example beer, wine (red or white), vodka, gin, liquor, plum brandy and many others. In my opinion it is very bad and sad if young people drink a lot of alcohol because it is certain that they will become addicted in the future.

Now I want to say something about racism. Nowadays racism is a global problem. Many persons hate people of different race, colour of skin or nationality. These people are called racists. However I have to say that sometimes it is very difficult don't be a racist because Gypsies who live in our country are very provocative. So for this reason is racism sometimes very close to crime.

Now about bullying. Bullying is a big problem and exists at all schools. It is when somebody hurts other children, says or writes bad things about them and causes wounds on the body and soul.

At the end I want to talk about drugs. Drugs are substances that cause changes in our body and mind. They are divided into two categories. The first group is consists of legal drugs such cigarettes, alcohol, coffee or chocolate and the second includes for example heroin, weed, LSD and so on. Why teenagers start to use drugs? I think they have problems with their parents or friends, they feel lonely or have broken heart, they are bored or they want to be cool and want to experience something new. Junkies are in my opinion stupid because I can't understand why they destroy their own health.
